Wayfaring Stranger is based on the traditional American song, I am a Poor, Wayfaring Stranger. The lyrics describe two forms of journey – the journey “home” to be with parents, and the journey to the “Heavenly home” to be with God. These two journeys merge, as one seeks to join with one’s earthly parents in heaven just as one meets with the Heavenly Father at the end of the final voyage.

The imagery of the text is varied, from the tenderness of longing for parents to the celebration of “singing to my God!” Thus, the musical setting endeavors to highlight this emotional range. Each verse receives a different musical expression relevant to the lyrics. The depths of longing (lowest vocal range) associate with missing one’s mother, and the heights of celebration arrive with the words, “I’ll soon be free of earthly trials.”

The musical language is characterized by a recurrent rhythmic underpinning. This walking pattern reflects the journey home – a deliberate tempo with increasing energy. “Precious Savior, bring me home!”
